White Spotted Variant

Aglaonema commutatum Schott (Chinese Evergreen | Philippine evergreen) is an evergreen, herbaceous shrub plant. It can grow up to 17 – 24 inches height. It has lance-shaped, dark green leaves with attractive silver-grey blotches. Blossoms show up on a little white spadix with greenish-white spathe. Blossoms usually bloom in summer to early fall. Flowers and fruit are infrequently produced indoors. This Indoor plant is on NASA's list of air-purifying plants. They are proven to remove Benzene and Formaldehyde toxins present in home environments and help reduce the irritant side-effects to humans.
